Marcus Dumesny dedicated himself to sprintcar racing from an early age, inspired by his father Max's success on the track. Marcus began racing motorbikes and go-karts before jumping into sprintcars, where he was named 2015 Sprintcar Association of NSW Rookie of the Year. In 2022, Marcus won the Australian Sprintcar Title at Archerfield Speedway. Only 22 years old at the time, he joined his father and a long line of champions to win the prestigious event.

Kyle Larson made it to victory lane in June 2024 at his hometown track in Sonoma, California, driving the Valvoline Chevrolet. In addition to his NASCAR duties, Kyle Larson also became just the 5th driver in history to attempt "The Double," driving both the Indy 500 and Coca-Cola 600 in the same day. Valvoline was alongside him in his attempt that was unfortunately thwarted by bad weather. Kyle will take on The Double again in 2025!

FERNANDO ALONSO

Feared by rivals for his ceaseless combativity, the 42-year-old double World Champion has lost none of the speed and guile that have defined an F1 career spanning more than two decades.

The Spaniard's skill, speed and experience are helping to drive us forward on our journey to becoming title challengers.

LANCE STROLL

A mercurial talent from Canada - after blitzing the junior single-seater ranks, Lance jumped straight from F3 to F1 while still a teenager.

His steely determination and focus have characterized his F1 career: competing against race winners and World Champions alike, he has always held his own.
